

Abstract

In a method for joining a joined material having a hydroxyl group containing surface to a joining material 5 having an organosiloxay group containing surface, the organosiloxay group containing surface is irradiated by ultraviolet radiation having wavelength of less than 220 nm thereby carrying out an oxidization treatment, and the hydroxyl group containing surface is adhered to the 10 oxidized organosiloxay group containing surface.